

2003

Apolloni A, Hooker CW, Mak J, and Harrich D. HIV-1 protease regulation of Tat activity is essential for efficient reverse transcription and replication. J Virol 77: 9912-9921, 2003.

Carr, J.M. , Hocking, H., Bunting, K., Wright, P. Davidson, A., Gamble, J., Burrell, C.J. & Li, P. (2003) Supernatants from dengue virus type-2 infected macrophages induce permeability changes in endothelial monolayers. Journal of Medical Virology. 69: 521-528.

Darnell GA, Antalis TM, Johnstone RW, Stringer BW, Ogbourne SM, Harrich D, and Suhrbier A. Inhibition of retinoblastoma protein degradation by interaction with the serpin PAI-2 via a novel consensus motif. Mol Cell Bio 23: 6520-6532, 2003.

Hooker CW and Harrich D. The first strand transfer reaction of HIV-1 reverse transcription is more efficient in infected cells than in cell-free natural endogenous reverse transcription reactions. J Clin Virol 26: 229-238, 2003.

Lake, J., Carr, J., Feng, F., Mundy, L., Burrell, C. & Li, P.(2003) The role of Vif during HIV-1 infection: interactions with novel host cellular factors. Journal of Clinical Virology. 26: 143-152.

Waldhuber, M., Bateson, M., Tan, J., Greenway, A., and McPhee, DA. (2003) Studies with GFP-Vpr fusion proteins: induction of apoptosis but ablation of cell cycle arrest despite nuclear membrane or nuclear localization. Virology 313(1):91-104.